

Violence is preventable. If we can learn it, we can unlearn it. Violence is not healthy for people and other living things. If we can see it, we can stop it. Silence is violence. If we can talk about it, we can change it.

Purpose of the Curriculum

The purpose of this curriculum is threefold:

- 1) to prevent youth in general from resorting to acts of violence, coercion and/or abuse in order to dominate and control others;
- 2) to re-educate those youths who have already begun to exhibit the effects of abuse and violence within their own interpersonal relationships; and
- 3) to build skills around knowledge, ability, and self-agency (the ability to govern ones own actions and reactions).

DETACH AND RETURN TO PEACE OVER VIOLENCE

In Touch With Teens Curriculum is a nationally recognized relationship violence prevention curriculum developed with urban youth in Los Angeles to change social norms around issues of violence in their relationships, homes and communities. It has been successfully implemented with diverse groups of high school and middle school aged youth from throughout the United States. And, it has proven effective in increasing knowledge about teen dating violence, sexual violence, and sexual harassment, as well as empowering youth to identify and eliminate unhealthy behavior.
